Poetry.

ITALY.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

Voices from the mountains speak;
Appenines to Alps reply;
Vale to vale and peak to peak
Toss an old remembered cry:
Italy
Shall be free;
Such the mighty shout that fills
All the passes of her hills.

All the old Italian lakes
Quiver at the quickening word;
Como with a thrill awakes;
Garda to her depths is stirred;
'Mid the steeps
Where he sleeps,
Dreaming of the elder years,
Startled Tharysmenus hears.

Sweeping Arno, Swelling Po,
Murmur freedom to their meads,
Tiber swift and Liris slow,
Send strange whispers from their reeds.
Italy
Shall be free,
Sing the glittering brooks that slide,
Toward the sea from Eton's side.

Long ago was Gracchus slain;
Brutus perished long ago;
Yet the living roots remain
Whence the shoots of greatness grow.
Yet again
God-like men,
Sprung from that heroic stem,
Call the land to rise with them.

They who haunt the swarming street,
They who chase the mountain boar,
Or, where cliff and billow meet,
Prune the vine or pull the oar,
With a stroke
Break their yoke;
Slaves but yesterday were they—
Freemen with the dawning day.

Looking in his children's eyes,
While his own with gladness flash,
"Ne'er shall these," the father cries,
"Cringe, like hounds, beneath the lash.
These shall ne'er
Brook to wear
Chains that, thick with sordid rust,
Weigh the spirit to the dust."

Monarchs, ye who stand
Harnessed for the battle-field!
Pause, and from that lifted hand
Drop the bolts of war ye wield.
Stand aloof
While the proof
Of the people's might is given;
Leave their kings to them and heaven.

Stand aloof, and see the oppressed
Chase the oppressor, pale with fear,
As the fresh winds of the west
Blow the misty valleys clear.
Stand and see
Italy
Cast the gyves she wears no more
To the gulfs that steep her shore.

Agricultural.

Seasonable Hints for Farmers.

Rake up leaves from the woods as they fall, and put them in the compost heaps. Cart headlands to the manure shed. Have good supply of materials suitable for bedding near the stables. Do not attempt to fatten more cattle than you can fully supply with food, or they will not afterwards flourish well, even if fully supplied. Young cattle cannot be brought up in flesh at an outlay that will pay if neglected early.

Skin old woods of the surface soil, and replace half its value as manure with lime and ashes in the woods, and both farm and woodland will gain by the exchange. Get all the night-soil you can, and mix it with headlands, &c., for the compost heap. Wet compost heaps with salt ley from the soap boilers, if you can get it. Use half a bushel refuse salt to every heap of compost, to prevent regermination of weeds, grubs, &c., &c. If you have not sufficient cellar room, make piles of your root crops, beets, turnips, carrots, &c., on high places, and cover with one inch of dry straw, and then with twelve inches of dry soil; have small holes in top for the escape of air, and dig a trench round the heap with a gutter leading to a lower spot, thus keeping the pile dry. Do not forget that corn is more valuable when changed to fat than when found in the hog manure; and to secure the first condition, cook it before feeding to hogs, or your manure will be very rich at too high a cost. Mr. Ellsworth has satisfactorily proved that one pound of cooked corn will make more pork than two pounds fed in the raw state.

Farming on a large Scale.

An Illinois paper furnishes the following account of a visit to "Bishop Hill Colony," a colony from Sweden, we believe, located in Henry County, Illinois.

"We were very agreeably surprised, on our recent visit to Bishop Hill at the signs of thrift and prosperity visible on every hand. First, it is a beautiful place, handsomely elevated, and adorned with a grove on the northwest. The buildings are substantial and comfortable, and one, originally designed for a hotel, is a fine specimen of architecture. A large clock occupies the cupola, and from that point a fine view of the surrounding country can be obtained, including a sight of Altona and Cambridge. The utmost neatness is observable in and around the dwellings of the people. It is hardly necessary to add that the people themselves are models of neatness and thrift.

The colony, we learned, now numbers 7000 persons. Some months ago it was divided, the seceding portion taking the name of the "Bishop Hill Company," and receiving their share of the property, though all live on the domain as before. We were told that a general division of the property is in contemplation, to take effect next fall or winter, so as to give every man or woman his or her share, and thus to do away with the community feature of the Colony.

The domain of the Colony embraces 12,000 acres, about 9,000 of which are under cultivation. To one accustomed to farming on a small scale, their operations seem to be immense, as in fact they are. Broom-corn is a specialty with them, and they have now about 3000 acres under cultivation. The crop averages about a ton to four acres, and the price about $100 per ton; upon which estimate, this year's crop will be worth $75,000 dollars. The colonists usually manufacture about 5,000 dozen brooms annually, and the balance of the crop is sold at the East. Of other crops, they have now on the ground about 2,000 acres wheat, 2000 of corn; say 2,000 of various other crops, such as sugar cane, potatoes, etc., and 1000 acres grass, Hungarian and Timothy. The whole estate is in admirable condition, showing unwearied care and excellent judgment on the part of the managers. The stock of the domain is large, and the barns and sheds for cattle and broom-corn are of mammoth proportions.

Cider-making.

In the course of popular changes in ideas, the production of cider has greatly fallen off in New England during the last quarter of a century. This falling off is hailed as a good omen by certain professional philanthropists, who forget that while a domestic product of a harmless nature, and a source of considerable wealth has been measurably abandoned, a foreign product of a harmful nature, which exhausts considerable wealth, has taken its place.—When there is less cider consumed there is more whiskey. This may not be an imperative rule, but it is an invariable one. If we would see the growing consumption of whisky checked, we must supply its place with good cider, the pure juice of the apple, a wholesome beverage.

But in cider-making there is much to be learned. Nay, there is almost everything to be learned. Cider-making has never yet been conducted upon fixed rules. Farmers have not gone to work upon a system, but have taken wind-falls, gnarled, sour, wormy rotten apples, and turned them into their cider-mills. Hence the abominable liquid that has been produced. A wine-press might be expected to produce Imperial Tokay or Chambertin from grapes mildewed, unripe, decayed and damaged every way, thrown in helter-skelter, as a cider-press to produce good cider under similar circumstances. The cider-maker must learn a lesson from the wine-maker, and when he would have cider of first, second, or third quality, select his apples with a view to that product. He should throw his refuse and wormy apples into the compost heap. Cider can be produced that will be far superior to the stuff that is ordinarily sold for champagne. The celebrated Newark cider is made almost exclusively from the pippin, but from unculled fruit. There is a gentleman who has been very successful in producing good cider who finds no difficulty in disposing of it at $4 a dozen; and it sells at retail at 50 cents a bottle. This gentlemen has, of last years product, 2000 dozen on hand. When asked by a customer who had enjoyed the taste of his cider—"Where are your orchards which produce this fine cider?" he replied—"I have no orchards; I don't own a single apple tree; I buy all my fruit, and cull it over carefully, using only the best and the entirely perfect apples for my cider press,"—Let but this rule be adopted, and we shall have a beverage that will compete champagne for the public favor; we shall have better cider vinegar; and we shall have increased permanently our sources of productive wealth.—Boston Courier.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

Made at the Cattle Show and Fair of the York County Agricultural Society, held at Saco, Oct. 9th, 10th, and 11th, 1860.

Your Committee on Bulls and Steers respectfully submit the following report:

There were entered for the Society's premium, three two year old bulls and three bull calves.

The bull entered by Franklin J. Berry of Limington, as a red Durham, is of a handsome dark red colour, well built, six feet in girth, weight stated to be 1200 lbs.

Whether this bull passes for a thoroughbred Durham, of undoubted pedigree, or as grade Durham, (probably he is the latter,) or as native, we consider him a fine animal, and award Mr. Berry the Society's premium of $5.00

The bull entered by Wm. Scamman of Saco, as a grade Hereford, is a large, thrifty powerful looking bull, dark color, white face,—six feet one inch in girth. If it had not been for his light hind quarters we should have considered him better than Mr. Berry's. As no second premium is offered, we recommend that Goodale's Report for 1859 be presented to Mr. Scamman.

The bull entered by Wm. Milliken, of Buxton, as a Devon, had the bright quick motion, and the rich beautiful color of the Devon, but aside from these we did not see much to recommend him,—we do not consider him a fair specimen of the Devon race. He is tall enough, and abundantly long, but lacks the breadth of frame,—the great power and weight in a small compass, for which this breed is so deservedly prized.

The bull calf entered by Loren Foss of Saco, is a large, thrifty, beautiful calf, dark red color, six months and twenty days old, weight stated to be 700 lbs.,—has had the milk of one cow, and two bushels of oats,—calls him of the Durham breed.

The exhibitors of bull calves will please bear in mind that no premium is offered for bull calves.

A large, thrifty bull calf was entered by Mr. Folsom of Biddeford,—girth four feet eight inches,—very long and heavy for his girth.

A medium sized calf was entered by A. M. Leavitt, of Saco.

In the class of four year old steers there were two entries. One pair of Daniel Harmon's of Buxton, the other Nahum Patterson's, of Saco.

Mr. Harmon's steers were very handsome, well matched, colored alike, seven feet one inch in girth,—weight 3454 lbs., of the native stock, raised by Mr. Harmon without extra keeping. We consider this the best pair of steers which we have ever seen exhibited here, and award to Mr. Harmon the Society's first premium of $5.00

The second pair, Mr. Patterson's, were colored alike, well-matched, well built, pretty little pair of steers, weigh 2412 lbs.

In the three years old class there were four entries. Two pairs by Samuel Milliken of Saco, one pair by Almon Durgin of Limerick, and one pair by David Meserve of Dayton.

Samuel Milliken's larger pair girt six feet eight inches, are a dark red color,—are not well matched, (one taller and larger than the other,) but for size, discipline, and ability to labour they are superior to any exhibited. We award to Mr. Milliken the Society's first premium of $4.00

Mr. Milliken a statement of his manner of treating his steers, from the time they were calved until now, is so full and to the point that we give it entire.

"The breed is grade Durham. Sucked till three months old, then weaned on grass and a little provender—fed on good hay and a little grain the first winter, then turned to pasture. Next winter fed on low meadow and salt hay, and made handy during the winter. Have worked constantly since two years old, and been kept on good hay and pasture, with the addition of cob meal in the spring.

I am decidedly in favor of grade Durham stock, both for cows and oxen. Some of my reasons are these: They have better dispositions, make better cows, are better to work, and attain to greater size, with the same expense, than any other breed with which I am acquainted."

We award to Almond Durgin of Limerick, the second premium of $3.00

To Samuel Milliken of Saco, the third premium Book.

The steers of David Meserve were snug and well-matched, and were, without doubt, an excellent pair. Girth, six feet four inches.

Of two years olds there were three pairs.

To John Banks, of Saco, we award the Society's first premium of $3.00

These steers were of native breed, light brindle, well-mated, and well-built. Girth, six feet.

We award to Otis Dennett of Buxton, the Society's 2nd premium of $2.00

To William Jose of Saco, we award the Society's 3d premium of Book.

No yearlings nor steer calves were entered.

On Agricultural Implements.

The Committee on Agricultural Implements make the following report;

Timothy B. Hussey, of North Berwick, presented his new pattern, deep tiller plow, No. 10. This plow has a depth of sixteen inches, mould board to correspond, and is calculated to make good work from eight to twelve inches in depth. It has two points fitted to the same plow, one for loamy, and one for stoney ground. To T. B. Hussey we award the Society's first premium of $3.00

He also offered a cultivator and harrow combined, which we think favorably of, and award a diploma. His assortment of plows added to this part of the show, and for which the Committee feel grateful.

George I. Goodwin, of Saco, offered six plows and two cultivators manufactured by Isaiah Frye, to which premiums have been awarded, and which are too well known to need any comment. He also offered one horse shoe, too complicated to be described in this report, but which farmers may see at his store. To him we award a diploma.

Emery & Co. of Newfield, offered a patent plow, which claims superiority in cheapness and simplicity of structure, for which the Committee think it entitled to credit, but think it lacks in depth.

Deering and Allen of Biddeford, entered a patent harrow, which we think favourably of, and one of us having used one can say from experience that it is preferable to the old-fashioned harrow. To him we award a diploma.

We noticed a patent lever churn from Twambly and Smith. Of this we cannot speak from experience, but think the principle is good, and that it may prove a good thing. The same may be seen at their store.

Our attention was called by Capt. Swett of Waterboro', to a very neat pair of three feet wheels, built by himself. He claims that in doing much of the work on the farm they are preferable, as they save loading so high. But as there is no premium offered for wheels, he will be satisfied with the advantage he has over others in loading and unloading the nice Suffolk pigs he is in the habit of showing at the fair.

On Dairy Products, Bread, &c.

Your Committee having attended to the duties assigned to them, submit the following report as the result of their examinations:

For lot No. 96, June butter—Mrs. David Barrows, Saco,—we award the first premium of $3.00

For lot No. 147, June butter, Mrs. S. S. Milliken, Buxton—we award the second premium of $2.00

For lot No. 245, September butter,—Mrs. D. Tuxbury, Saco—we award the first premium of $3.00

For lot No. —, September butter—Geo. Thompson. Newfield—we award the second premium of $2.00

Your Committee found it extremely difficult to select from the many really good lots of September butter entered for premiums, but after a careful examination, we award the premiums as above.

Your Committee find one lot only entered for the Society's premium for best product of butter, accompanied with statement, according to the rules of the Society, and for lot No. 11,—Mrs. Sarah Milliken, Saco,—we award the Society's first premium of $1.00

To Mrs. Sarah Libby, of Buxton, for the best loaf of brown bread, we award the first premium of $1.00

To Miss Rachel Moody of Saco, for brown bread, we award the 2nd premium of ,50

To Miss Ann Murphy, of Biddeford, for Hop yeast bread $1.00

To Mrs. D. Tuxbury, of Saco, for wheat bread ,50

Mr. Aaron Milliken, of Buxton, presented a very nice cheese, for which the Committee award the 1st premium of $2.00

On Paintings.

The Committee on paintings have attended to the duty assigned to them, and beg leave to report. They are happy to see so large a number contributed and are sorry they have so little money to dispose of in gratuities.

The painting of Gen. Knox, by Granger, they consider a painting of very high order, and award diploma, and gratuity of $1.00

Portraits in oil, of Gentlemen, by Miss H. B. Skeele of St. Louis, (formerly of Saco,) are very correct likenesses, and finely executed; also a pencil drawing by same is very pretty, we award Miss Skeele Diploma and gratuity of $1.00

The Photographs contributed by Burnham Brothers of Portland, were very finely executed, and added much to the interest of the exhibition, we award them Diploma.

The Photographs by McKenny, of Biddeford, we consider very true to life and well executed; we award him Diploma and gratuity of $1.00

Family groups, photographed by Davis of Saco, but not entered by him are fine pictures, we award Davis Diploma.

The Old Homestead, a Crayon Drawing by Miss Gove, of Biddeford, Diploma.

Pressed flowers, by Miss M. E. Child, of Biddeford, are arranged with taste and are very beautiful; we award her Diploma and gratuity of $1.00

Sea Mosses, by Miss P. P. Child, of Biddeford, are also very beautiful; we award her Diploma and gratuity of $1.00

Five old Engravings, entered by Mrs. E. H. Greene, are very finely executed, and are interesting, from their antiquity; we award her gratuity of $1.00

Shell frame, by Mrs. John Parker, of Biddeford, displays much ingenuity and is very pretty; we award her gratuity of $1.00

Hair Wreath by Mrs. Samuel C. Adams, of Alfred, also displays much ingenuity, and is very handsome; we award gratuity of $1.00

Oil Painting, by Granger, boys fishing, is a very fine painting, and we can imagine their glee on landing their prize; we award him gratuity of $1.00

Also, Engraving of First Parish Church, Saco, is a very correct and true likeness of the old Church; we award gratuity of $1.00

On Live Fowls.

Your Committee on Live Fowls, beg leave to make the following report:

The first premium on 17 geese, awarded to Thomas Underwood of Saco, very fine lot, $2.00

Ishmael Harmon of Saco—Lot of Hens, 34 in number, first premium, $2.00

John Milliken of Buxton—50 Turkeys, first premium, $2.00

Flock of Hens, 12 in number, Book.

George Milliken of Buxton—65 Ducks, a fine lot, first premium, $1.00

Samuel Milliken of Saco, and Frank Scamman of Saco, did not bring in their fowl for inspection.

On Carriages.

The Committee on Carriages, Sleighs, Harnesses, &c., report that they found entered for premium by Owen B. Chadbourne of Saco, five Carriages, viz:

One Top Buggy, one Jersey two seated Wagon, one back booted Wagon, one common Concord style side spring Wagon, and one two seated straight body Wagon, also a Hand Wagon.

Although the Committee regret that there were no other entries for the Society's premium in this department, they were united in awarding Mr. Chadbourne the highest premium, believing the articles fully deserving.

The workmanship, style of finish, and durableness of material, commend them to all who wish to purchase good carriages.

From the samples exhibited, the Committee would say, that in their opinion no better carriages can be found than those manufactured in our own County, by Mr. Chadbourne.

Your Committee would therefore award to him for best Family Carriage, $3.00
For the best Open Wagon, 2.00
" " " Top Buggy, Diploma.

J. B. HUSSEY, for the Com.

Sheep and Swine.

The Committee on Sheep and Swine, having attended to the duty assigned them, beg leave to report:

Since the formation of the York County Agricultural Society, there has not probably been a better, if as good exhibition of Sheep and Hogs as at this Cattle Show. Of Sheep there were eight entries, all of them of excellent if not extra quality. Two of the flocks were of imported breeds, the remainder of native and imported. Henry Jordan of Kennebunk, entered a beautiful specimen of the Cotswold, Buck and Ewes, from the farm of G. C. Hitchcock, of Conn., with others of mixed breed of this same stock, for which he is deserving of much praise and a reward from the Society, as well as from every wool and mutton grower in the County, if not in the State.

James G. Jenkins of Eliot, exhibited a lot of seven South Down Sheep, of pure blood, for premium and for sale, which were really beautiful and of which it is hoped the wool and mutton raisers of York Co. will avail themselves for the improvement of their flocks as two or more were Bucks, their wool being fine, thick and silky, the mutton superior too, and commanding a higher price, at quicker sale than any other in the market. The several other lots were entered for premium, by Messrs Jeremiah Wadlin of Biddeford, Lawrence Jordan, of Saco, Loren Foss, of Saco, Nathaniel Milliken, of Buxton, John Milliken of Buxton and Howard Scammon, of Saco. All of them of extra quality; a flock of seven lambs shown by Mr. Wadlin, of the native breed, from stock on the farm for the past eighty years, were really fine.—The flocks offered by H. Scammon, of one Buck and six Ewes, were beautiful, so far so that it was a matter of no little difficulty for the committee to decide between them. The other were all of excellent quality and of credit to the owners and deserving of notice at the hands of the Society. The Society offer but one premium on Bucks. We award that to Henry Jordan of Kennebunk, for the mixed Cotswold. There being but two premiums for flocks of Sheep we award the first premium for the best flock to James G. Jenkins of Eliot, for his flock of South Downs. Second to H. Scammon of Saco, for second best flock.

The same remarks which your committee have made in regard to Sheep, on exhibition, may with propriety be applied to Swine.—The specimens of Sheep and Swine, on exhibition evidently show a decided improvement in, and a determination on the part of farmers to improve and have on their farms the best stock of both Sheep and Swine, which deserves a fostering care of Agricultural Societies. There were five boars exhibited for premium; six breeding sows, with litter of pigs with each, all of which were very nice. One boar exhibited by Moses L. Milliken of Biddeford, of the Suffolk Breed for farmers, they award the Society's first premium for the best boar. The Society's second premim to John Hanscom for six months old Tuscarora, a beautiful animal and deserving the notice of Pork raisers. Henry Jordan of Kenebunk, also presented two boars of the white Chester Co., stock, one of six months, one of a year, unfortunately the older could not be shown to good advantage, so that his good points might be seen, yet your committe have no doubt of the good qualities of the animal, as a litter of his pigs present demonstrated and we cheerfully call the attention of farmers to his stock of Hogs. Henry T. Wentworth of Saco entered one boar for premium, your committee regret that no premium; was provided for him, as well as others, though they were thought favorably of, and deserving,

The breeding sows, with their litters of pigs were of superior quality. For the best breeding sow with pigs, we award the Society's first premium to Capt. Wm. Swett of Waterboro. For the best litter of pigs, we also award the Society's first premium to Capt. Wm. Swett of Waterboro. The second premium for 2d best sow with pigs, we award to Samuel Milliken of Saco. Also to Samuel Milliken of Saco, the second premium for 2d best litter of pigs.

There were but two entries for fattened hogs, both noble fellows and no doubt will eat well, when well cooked with beans by lovers of pork and beans, we award the Society's first premium to B. W. Robbins of Biddeford, the second premium to H. T. Wentworth of Saco.

By the rules and regulations, your commitee are not allowed to award any gratuities on discretionary premiums, yet we beg leave to suggest to the proper authorities of the Society the propriety of directing the Sec., or Treasurer to present to each contributor in this department, a bound copy of the Fourth Annual Report of the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture of the State of Maine.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Miscellaneous.

Back-Woods Life.

My father moved to Minnesota in the spring of 1856. I was then a gay and somewhat scrawny girl of thirteen years. I remember, when he helped me to climb up the wheel into the great wagon where mother, the baby and Dave had already been ensconced, father said, with that tone into which the voice slides so easily when we are breaking away from home.

'You'll be a woman, Nora, before you see old Illinois again.'

It was a strange subject of contemplation for such a time, when the heart was full of the old memories that cluster around the humblest home; when the eyes of all of us were swimming in tears; and the first miles of our long journey, were being finished. But still I could not help reflecting on those words of my father, 'You'll be a woman, Nora.'

What great change was upon the threshold of which I was now standing; so much an era in the life of us that father used it, half unconsciously, as the measurement of time, the date of an epoch?

I think we are apt to seek a new channel of thought when the last good-bye has been said, and the rumbling of wheels reminds us that the partings are really over at last.—The soul has been so long busy with this ever-approaching climax of tears and grief, that when once the die is cast it turns willingly from under the special pressure to some untried, contemplative phase.

And as the wagon wound along the road—while father was watching the retreating home scenes, and mother was drying her eyes with very doubtful success—I sat and wondered what was before. What should this wild, ungainly, restless, homely girl be as a woman? What untried, undreamed of path would open before me by-and-by? Should I love to clamber over fences then? Should I love to sit and watch the lightning and listen to the thunder? Should I love lambs, and chickens, and little pigs? And would it be the height of my ambition then, as now, to jump the rope a greater number of times than anybody else could, and play the leaf-and-comb harpsichord better than even Jim Lane, the boy music king? I can scarcely tell where my thread of thought, though unwinding, would have led me, had not the stout voice of John, my elder brother, who was pedestrianizing behind the family coach, burst out with—

'Father, you've left the saw, and the axe, and them two scythes.'

Father drew in the reins, looked thoughtful a moment, stood up on the tongue, and gazed back down the road, glanced at mother, and then said, with a sigh—

'Well, I'm sorry, they're worth five dollars—an' money'll be scarce in the new country; but I—I can't go back."

So we jogged along.

Our turn-out was of the popular pattern, for which, fortunately, no patent had been taken. A broad roomy wagon on stout wheels covered with white cloth stretched upon arched poles, and forming a canopy suggestive of the 'milky way,' filled with boxes of clothing, barrels of provisions, and divers cooking utensils, the whole drawn by a pair of stout, though somewhat scraggy, farm-horses.

I will attempt to give the panorama of our long, slow journey over so many hundred miles in such vicissitudes of weather, cooking our well-eaten meals in the open air, and sleeping within the half-shelter under the storm as well as starlight. When night came father would drive out one side of the road, unhitch the horses, and then prepare for the cooking of supper. Mother was just as good a housewife there as in our snug kitchen at home. Everything was as clean as it could be; the biscuit were white and feathery; and the teakettle swinging from the cross-stick on the crotches, sang the identical song that it sung in 'Illinois.' Father always gave thanks over these out-door meals; and I used to notice or fancy I noticed, more softness in his rugged tones than ever before.

One night—we had been out many weeks, had entered Minnesota, and were some forty miles west of the falls of St. Anthony, in the broad belt of timber which reaches across that section of the country; John and Dave were out shooting pigeons, tea and biscuit were being served and eaten with the usual relish—suddenly a man on horseback pulled up before us, with the words:

'For God's sake, come and help us, if you know anything about doctoring! He's bleeding to death!—Carl is. Quick! Come quick!'

Father was slowly gathering himself together with the hard work, when I strung to nervous quickness by the man's manner and story, ran to one of the horses, scrambled to his back, and galloped away to the scene of the horrifying disaster. I found a young man bleeding to death, as the messenger had said—a cut across the arm severing the brachial artery. Thanks to my reading, I knew what to do. Putting my fingers in the gash from which the blood was spouting, I pressed the lips of the artery together, and the flow of blood ceased. Further than this I knew little or nothing. Another of the party had gone in the direction of a man living a few miles back, who had the reputation of being a physician. I had stopped the flow of blood. So far I was safe. More I would not attempt. So I sat on the ground beside him, and held my finger on the artery—holding his life there with my forefinger.

No less than two hours elapsed before the doctor came, and all that time I sat with my finger on the crevice through which his life's blood had oozed away. He was very weak and pale.

Sometime he would lie with his eyes quite closed, and the breathing scarcely perceptible. And he would turn his face toward me, and, fastening his eyes, seemed to study me; much as an invalid would study the paper on the walls. He was very patient in waiting, and appeared very grateful for my timely coming and care.

Though brown and rough with exposure, his arm was smoothly fashioned, and his hands were rather small for a man of executive life. I wondered, while I sat there what kind of a life I had saved—if it were indeed saved.—Was this man, beside whom I was kneeling—these muscles, lips, eyes—a living power for good virtue and truth, or was I checking the outflow of a sort of self-life of which the ashes would be scarcely less valuable than the perfect structure before me? I wondered:—

Who was his father?
Who was his mother?
Had he a sister?
Had he a brother?
Or was there a dearer one
Still, and a nearer one
Yet, than all other?

What made the man look at me so? Was it because I looked so odd and ugly? I didn't care; I had saved his life, any way. Surely he need have little concern for the looks of her who was holding his heart-beat under her finger, be she ever so ugly.

At length the doctor arrived. I was released, and the wound was dressed.

Life had so nearly ebbed that it was necessary to have gentle care for a few days; and as there were no women in the depths of that forest within many miles, mother would have us remain and rest, that she might care for the stranger. Father was not unwilling for he said:

'Taint no use to overdrive and worry ourselves, and then, agin, it's no loss to help a young fellow like him to live.'

We staid four days. I remember nothing remarkable about it, except that the stranger became likely and interesting as he grew stronger, and that father and mother both liked him.

They seemed to regard him as a superior in some way. I liked him too. But then I was only a child; and mother had always taught me to be unobtrusive and quiet in the presence of strangers. I used to wait on him a good deal though, and often read to him, and answered his questions concerning the books which had fallen in my way. I thought him rather inquisitive sometimes. But then he seemed to know so much; it gave him a sort of a right to be free with simple people like us, and especially with an uncouth child like myself. I used to wonder what made him look at me so much—not rudely, but with a studying expression; full of good breeding, but earnest. Intuitively I knew he was reading me. Me! I hoped that he liked it.

When we left him, father gave minute description of the locality which he designed to select as our future home. It was to be on such a 'quarter-section,' in such a 'township,' and on such a "range."

'I shall find you all again," he said, as we rolled away.

Some disappointment concerning the land upon which father had intended to settle, together with rather glowing accounts of a more northern section of the country, produced an important change in his plans and the final location of our home.

If there were time to give them, the rough vicissitudes of pioneer life would be suggestive of some description in which the writer, if not the reader, would take an interest.—There was hard work for father—borne stoutly and cheerly, however. Those great forest trees came crashing down one by one, spreading more and more of the sky above us, and, with their smouldering in heaps, filling the air with a perfume which soon came to have a touch of home in it.

Mother made the log cabin a very comfortable place indeed—a tidy, lovable, attractive home, for us of simple tastes and habits. Mother and I had full superintendence of the garden; and not unfrequently browned our faces in keeping it free from weeds. For myself, I was given more liberty than I should have taken, perhaps; but I loved so well to roam under the trees, in search of flowers and curiosities, that I fear I sometimes forgot the house and garden work at home.

I lived rather an unrestrained, rather a wild life, in keeping with my rollicking tendencies.

While the three years were going by I used to wonder sometimes when I should be a woman in that sense of the word which implies a consciousness of a different style of nature and existence. Father would often speak of me as a young woman now. The dresses of three years ago were quite outgrown; the little broken mirror—all we could boast—told a story of more symmetrical features and a deeper life in my face; travelers, who often came that way, treated me with a consideration never evinced toward a child; rustic young men were shy of me; and yet it seemed to me that I was the same untamable girl I had ever been.

Laughingly, I said to my father one day, 'I'm a woman after all, unless I get sobered suddenly.'

He only looked up with an expression of honest pride in his good, fatherly face. We are not the least alike, yet I love my father dearly.

Mother said to me one day, as she sat sewing in the breeze, by the open doorway:

'I've got something to tell you, child.'

I saw by the slightest possible catching of the breath and constraint of tone, that the subject was embarrassing.

I dropped my work upon my lap, folded my hands, and looked up. Mother broke the ice with one of those sudden blows which her quick hand knew how to deal:

'Mr. Brock wants to marry you.'

'Me!' and, darting out of the doorway, I ran down the path, and then walked hurriedly into the forest. I wandered about, breaking twigs from the bushes, hunting bear-tracks and flowers, till I was calm as well as tired. And yet every thought took form in the ejaculation, 'Me!' In two hours I returned. Mother was sitting in the same spot. I took my seat and work, and for a little time we worked away quietly.

'He is a likely young man.'

I said nothing.

'Your father says his clearing is one of the best within ten miles, and is sure to give him a good, comfortable living, besides making him well off by and by, when the country gets settled.'

'But he's so much older than I; and then I'm only a girl, and am so happy here at home, mother.'

'You won't always want to live at home, child. You will be happier to have a home of your own; and Mr. Brock is good and safe and substantial.'

'But I don't love him.

'You will child.'

We sat still a long while, and, when we put aside our work to prepare for tea, mother only said:

'Think it over, my daughter.'

I thought it over. He was good, and I liked him. If I didn't love him it was equally true that I loved nobody else, and was not likely to. Mother wished it, and perhaps I had better. Oh, if I could only love, so as to be free from this misgiving! The next Sabbath morning I said:

'I guess I had better;'

She came and put her arms about me, and when I dropped my face on her breast, kissed my forehead very tenderly. A month or two after this, while out in the forest—rambling, reading and thinking—Ponto, my guardian, suddenly burst away from me with the most vociferous barkings, and, before I could control him, he was beyond the reach of my voice. I saw one of the company of travelers level a gun at him. Another knocked the muzzle up at just the right instant, and the spent shot fell rattling through the leaves about me.

I thanked the preserver of my dog; and when they asked me for a night's resting-place, pointed to our little log-house.

While they were at the table, I sat in the firelight with a vague sense of unrest on my spirits. The frame of mind was new to me, indiscribably vague and yet positive. It seemed as though a new life were struggling with the old life—as though, indeed, the chrysalis of childhood were being broken. I think it was; for when I rose to remove the dishes from the table, a pair of calm, clear eyes went with me around the room, were visible whichever way I turned, burned into my being until my face flushed and my temples throbbed.

The face was very different. The bearing firm and commanding, rather than weak and listless.

I would give no sign of recognition.

When the others retired, he lingered to talk with father, he said. Then he electrified father and mother, as well as Dave and John, by making himself known. Gave us all a hearty grasp of the hand. I never trembled so before; and I didn't look up at all.—Though I dared not look at mother, yet I saw her dear mother eyes fixed on me with sweet concern. I do not wonder. I look back to that evening now as a translation—as one would look upon a lightning transfer from the snows to the topics.

That was four months ago. Carl says that his watching me, when he cared for me in his weakness, was because he read in my girl-face and girl-talk a promise of which he has the fulfilment now.

He says—and Carl cannot be right on this point—that he saw in me a native power and sensibility which would fit me for the position into which he would bring me. I try—for him.

He says he searched for us far and wide, and was never at rest till he found us.

Carl says I am beautiful now; I wish it were really true, for his sake.

I am Carl's wife; and he loves me.

An Island Home.

About midway between Nahant and Swampscot, in Massachusetts Bay, and about three miles from the shore, lies Egg Rock, a singular production of nature, which Alonzo Lewis, in his history of Lynn, describes as being eighty-six feet in height, forty-five rods in length, twelve in breadth, with a superficial area of about three acres and which, viewed from the north, resembles a lion couchant guarding the town of Lynn. On the summit is about half an acre of soil, mostly guano, with a mixture of vegetable mould, exceedingly rich. Until about five years ago this rock was tenanted solely by sea fowl.

Through the efforts of Mr. Lewis, Government was prevailed upon to erect a lighthouse upon the dangerous islet, as a guide and a warning to mariners, many of whom had met with a watery grave for want of a beacon light at this point. The lighthouse, as we learn from the Lynn Reporter, is a snug establishment, built of stone, with comfortable accommodations for the keeper and his family. Upon this rock lives Mr. George Taylor, the keeper, his wife, and five children—a solitary community in sight of a busy world, yet almost, as it were, out of it. Here they live in calm and happy serenity. Winter hurls its icy storms and angry waves against their rocky home, and the fierce winds hold revel about their snug stone dwelling, seemingly striving to throw it over the cliff into the boiling deep, yet they repose securely within. A novice would be terror stricken by the gales which they have learned to regard without fear. In summer it is a pleasant and picturesque spot. The cool sea breezes temper the scorching rays of the sun, and the white sails of vessels of every discription enliven the waters of the bay in all directions.

During the summer season large numbers of people visited the rock, as many as three hundred having been there during the month of August. During much the larger part of the year, however, callers are few, and Mrs. T. says she has passed eight consecutive months without looking upon the face of a female! The children play freely about the island, skipping from rock to rock, without accident. There has been no sickness in the family during the four years they have been upon the rock. One of Mr. Taylor's pets is a remarkable dog, of which the Reporter says:

"One of the most valued and esteemed of Mr. Taylor's family pets, is his dog, the guardian of his establishment and the protector of his children. This dog is very fond of the water, and enjoys himself greatly in swimming off among the breakers when the sea is rough. In the winter season as the Swampscot fishermen come in from their trips they will often lash two or three good-sized codfish to a stick of wood and throw them over for the benefit of Mr. Taylor. The dog, who is always on the look out, will notice the proceeding, and forthwith swim off and bring in the prize though the weather be ever so cold, and the fish often a mile from the rock. In thick or foggy weather, he will station himself upon the seaward side of the rock, and upon the slightest sound of an approaching vessel, which he can distinguish at a great distance, he will set up an incessant barking, which has often proved a warning when a light could not be seen. Mr. Taylor thinks the dog quite as useful as the light, and we do not see how he could well get along without him."

The example of happy contentment exhibited by this isolated family, furnishes a lesson from which many might gather wisdom whose means of enjoyment are far greater.

Happy Nancy.

There once lived in an old brown cottage, so small that it looked like a chicken-coop, a solitary old woman. She tended a little garden, and knit and spun for a living. She was known everywhere, from village to village, as happy Nancy. She had no money, no family, no relations; she was half blind, quite lame, and very crooked. There was no comeliness in her, and yet there, in that homely, deformed body, the great God, who loves to bring strength out of weakness, had set His royal seal.

"Well, Nancy, singing again?" would the chance visitor say, as he lounged at the door.

'La! yes, I'm for ever at it. I don't know what people will think,' she would say with a sunny smile.

'Why, they'll think, as they always do, that you're very happy.'

'La! well, that's a fact. I am just as happy as the day is long.'

'I wish you would tell me your secret. Nancy, you are all alone with large nostrils and thin lips was desirable; that a dishing-faced horse was apt to be ugly; and that short lips indicate a hard mouth. A face broad between the eyes indicates courage and intelligence. The neck of a horse should be straight under side, and crested thin on top. A thick crest usually belongs to a sluggish animal. The windpipe should be clean, and have thin surroundings; the withers high and sharp; the back short, so that its length from hip to shoulder should not exceed the length from hip to stifle. A sloping shoulder is less likely to stumble than a perpendicular one. A stout, still pastern is more easily injured than a long, springy one. Broad-chested horses are better for draft, and deep chested ones better for travel Crooked hocks are apt to be spavined. The foot of a horse should be round and full-frogged. Short, fine-haired horses are easiest groomed. Shoeing horses is sometimes attended with benefit. The old Eclipse horse, that never was passed, or lost a bet, that won $74,000, and was sold for $350, died in England in 1850 at the age of 25."

REPUBLICANISM

TRIUMPHANT!

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

AND

HANNIBAL HAMLIN

ELECTED

President and Vice President.

MAINE 30,000 MAJORITY FOR LINCOLN!

MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VERMONT, MASSACHUSETTS, RHODE ISLAND, CONNECTICUT, N. YORK, PENNSYLVANIA, OHIO, MICHIGAN, INDIANA, ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, IOWA, MINNESOTA, ALL HAVE SPOKEN FOR FREEDOM!

Sound the loud timbrel o'er Egypt's dark sea,
For liberty triumphs, the people are free.

Ring out the old, ring in the new;
Ring out the false, ring in the true;
Ring out a slowly dying cause
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler moods of life
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

The people have perfected the glorious work commenced by the representatives of the Republican party at Chicago in May last. ABRAHAM LINCOLN, of Illinois, and our own HANNIBAL HAMLIN, were, on Tuesday last, elected by the suffrages of the people, the one the President and the other the Vice President of the republic.

We congratulate our Republican friends on the triumph of their party, on an event so auspicious to the cause of republican liberty in the United States. We congratulate all sincere lovers of the constitution, all believers in the doctrine that our fathers established this government "to secure the blessings of liberty," and to extend the advantages of free institutions, on a result which, in our judgment, is of incalculable value in strengthening the government and securing its permanence. We congratulate all who loathe corruption in the administration of public affairs, and peculation and plunder in public officers, upon the promise of a turn in the management of public affairs which shall inaugurate anew the policy of the fathtrs of the republic, and bring the government back again to the practice of that "economy in the public expenditure" which Jefferson said "would lighten the burden of labor," and that intelligent and upright administration of it which will secure to each and every section all the rights and privileges which the constitution accords to it, and to each and every individual the proper enjoyment of the rights guaranteed to him by the constitution and the laws.

More and above all we congratulate the friends of a true civilization, and social progress, on a result and a victory, which, if carried out in the spirit in which it has been achieved, will turn backward the advancing steps of a barbarism which was fast crushing the hopes of humanity and which will give to the mission of liberty a more transcendant glory, and secure to it still greater triumphs.

It is indeed a glorious victory—a triumph won by the stalwart arm of free labour fighting with constitutional weapons for mighty interests periled by the advancing strides and arrogant demands of an antagonistical system that privileged classes were seeking to ingraft into the very life-work of our social and political polity.

We see in the triumph the promise of a realization of those beneficent results which will surely follow a return and an adherence to that wiser and better policy of the fathers of the government who, with a clearness of vision that has had no parallel in the world's history, saw that the true interests of posterity were to be promoted by solemnly dedicating the territories of the republic to the enjoyment of free institutions forever. The future of these territories were involved in the issue, and the decision carries with it their dedication, as they shall severally become subjects of national care and legislation, to the bright and cheering influences of free labor, and gives to them a policy which will build them up in all the elements of national greatness. Scattering far and wide along the peaceful pathways of river and stream, over smiling hills and valleys, o'er the broad expanse of the prairie, as they are covered with the abodes of man, the blessings of the policy of freedom.

We rejoice in the victory won because it gives us renewed confidence in the wisdom and sagacity of the people. They have dissipated all fears or distrust in their capacity for self-government—have scattered with their breath of popular indignation alike the advocates of a false and specious popular sovereignty, or the adherants of an arrogant and pampered aristocracy, turning aside with patriotic contempt from the cool and calculating indifference to the expansion of slavery of the one, and the unblushing demands for its protection and extension of the other.

It is a victory the importance of which cannot be overstated, and the influence of which will be felt forever in the republic. Step by step since the organization of the Republican party, has it marched on in its career of victories. Year by year as the periods came round, has its power been felt in the rejuvenation of the National Legislature, and now in the fullness of time and in the constitutional method it takes possession of the executive department of the government. Treason will not dare to raise a parricidal weapon against it. No fear need be apprehended that it will not fulfill its great and glorious mission. Its representatives go into power by the united voices of millions of freemen, who have executed in a constitutional way the rights of freemen, and who stand ready, if need there be, to punish treason as it deserves. It cannot but be true to the great liberty loving hearts of the people, and in the administration of Abraham Lincoln we shall have one alike ready to defend the interests of the country against the assaults of foreign enemies, or treasonable attempts to disolve the Union at home, one that will give "Equal and Exact justice" to all sections, protect and develope the resources of the country by necessary legislation bind it together with the iron links of national pathways, and promote the welfare of the masses by a beneficent policy in the public lands, and through the honest action of an honest executive secure an economical administration of the government.

So much for this great victory. It has been won by the cordial co-operation of patriotic men who have met and overcome the serried ranks of the enemy. Not a State, expected to be carried by the Republicans has been lost.—Fusion has been overwhelmed in New York and the mighty voices of millions of freemen in all the free States from the Atlantic coast to the far off streams that swell on both sides of the mighty waters of the "Father of Rivers" have mingled to demand a return to the policy of the fathers of the republic. Strong in the faith of their honored leaders, that "right makes might" they have conquered. "Thanks be to God who giveth the victory."

MAINE.

The Republicans of Maine came nobly up to the work. Everywhere there is a great Republican gain from Sept. The returns received indicate the election of the Lincoln Electors by from 25,000 to 30,000.

Our net gain in 15 towns is 2044, and forty towns give Lincoln 15743, Douglas 7094, Breckenridge 405, Bell 743. The net Republican gain in Saco is 84, in this city 137, and in all other towns in York heard from, is 844. Lincoln's plurality in ou county will be near 2000.

We give below returns from towns heard from in

YORK COUNTY.

We have returns from eighty-nine towns in the State, which give Lincoln 24,505, Douglas 10,980, Breckinridge 2010, and Bell 940. The aggregate vote falls short of that in September, but mostly on the part of Democrats.

Lincoln's plurality in Maine will be near 30,000. Majority over all, about 25,000.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Granite State has cast her vote for Lincoln and Hamlin by a large majority. We give returns from a few leading towns, which indicate a majority for Lincoln and Hamlin of from 6,000 to 8,000:

	L.	D.	B.	BELL.
Dover,	984	351	137	86
Rollinsford,	200	82	0	9
Stratham,	106	49	12	2

Durham,	165	120	3	1
Concord,	1408	772	33	13

VERMONT.

MONTPELIER, Nov. 7.—The day has been very stormy, and the vote is therefore light. Returns from 35 towns show the following result: Lincoln 10,806, Douglas 3199, Breckinridge 789, Bell 137, showing a large gain for Lincoln over Fairbanks' vote in the same towns last September. Lincoln's gain in the State is expected to bring up his majority to 25,000.

MASSACHUSETTS.

While we are sorry to chronicle the defeat of the gallant Burlingame for Congress, it gives us pleasure to announce that, despite the efforts of the Beacon Street Aristocracy, who struck hands with the lowest classes to be found in the haunts of infamy and vice in Boston, the Old Bay State is true to Freedom.—The vote indicates the election of the Lincoln ticket by some 40,000 majority.

Our first dispatch from Boston was received at 7 1-2 o'clock, and reads thus:

"Rice is elected—Burlingame is defeated.—Nothing yet from abroad." C. G. C.

Rice's majority is about 400, and Burlingame lacks 200 of a choice. We append a few returns from some of the towns to show how the vote runs generally:

	L.	D.	B.	BELL
Haverhill,	1113	382	53	74
Lawrence,	1002	497	33	177
Methuen,	283	147	16	40
Andover,	289	87	14	55
Boston,	9723	4606	876	5164
Lowell,	2779	1013	139	441
Worcester,	2561	1027	6	333
Springfield,	1382	361	114	73
New Bedford,	1763	285	142	183

Lincoln's plurality in the State, 70,460.

Andrew's maj. for Governor over all, 38,739.

All the Republican nominees for Congress, except Burlingame elected. Baily, in the Worcester district, is elected by 2000 majority over Thayer. Both branches of the Legislature nearly all Repnblican.

RHODE ISLAND.

The aggregate vote is Lincoln, 12,078, Douglas 7675. Lincoln's plurality, 4403. Well done, Little Rhody!

CONNECTICUT.

Republican majority 7000 or 8000 over all. Returns from seven counties give a total as follows: Lincoln, 33,217; Douglas, 13,992; Breckenridge, 12,590; Bell, 1340.

We copy from our Extra issued at 4 o'clock, A. M., Wednesday Morning, the following results:

NEW YORK AND PENNSYLVANIA.

The first news we received of the result in these States was obtained through the following very gratifying dispatch from a perfectly reliable source in Boston. The dispatch was received at half past eight P. M., and is as follows:—

"Returns received indicate that the Republicans have swept the States of New York and Pennsylvania without doubt." U. S. P.

Later.

The following general dispatch we received at 15 minutes before 12:

113 towns in New Hampshire give Lincoln 24,120, Douglas 15,856, Breckinridge 1332, Bell 267.

New York City—17th Ward, 4 districts wanting—Union 4468, Rep. 2198; 19th Ward, Union 1484, Rep. 1174; 8th Ward, Union 3123, Rep. 1644; 18th Ward, Union 3831, Rep. 1758; 16th Ward, Union 3422, Rep. 2520. The Union majority in the city will not exceed 30,000. Returns from 39 small interior towns show large Rep. gains. The State has undoubtedly gone for Lincoln by from 40,000 to 50,000.

New York State, King's County, including 6 wards in Brooklyn, also Flatbush, Staten Island, gives Lincoln 52 majority; 3d ward, New York City, gives Union ticket 571, Republican 285. 5th ward, Union, 2151, Republican, 1133; 10th ward, Union, 2193, Republican, 1,-462; 11th ward, Union, 4205, Republican, 1940; 9th ward, Union, 3944, Republican, 2988; 16th ward, Union, 3422, Republican, 2520; 18th ward, Union, 3831, Republicun, 1758.

Scattering returns from New Jersey indicate the success of the whole Republican ticket.

Baltimore complete,—Breck. 14,850, Bell 12,619, Douglas 1562, Lincoln 1080.—Bell men claim to have carried the state by 2000 majority. More soon, G. A. C.

Latest.

At 1 1-2 o'clock we received the following:—NEW JERSEY.—Pennington, Rep. is re-elected to Congress. NEW HAMPSHIRE.—133 towns, Lincoln 24,445, Douglas 18,314, Breck. 1511, Bell 399. NEW YORK.—71 towns, Lincoln 13,868 majority. Union majority in New York City, 28,138. MARYLAND.—Gains for Bell, result doubtful.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Lancaster County—Lincoln 8000 majority. Alleghany County, 10000. Huntington Co. 1500; other returns from interior show large gains for Lincoln over Curtin's vote. In 31 Districts 2390 Lincoln gain over October.

VIRGINIA.—Alexandria town and county give Bell 1080; Breck. 592; Douglas 139; Lincoln 16. Petersburg—Bell 970; Douglas 613; Breck. 223. Norfolk—Bell 986; Breck. 438, Douglas 230; state gone for Bell.

NORTH CAROLINA.—Raleigh gives Bell 231 majority.—State probably gone for Breck. LOUISIANA.—New Orleans election quiet—result in state uncertain. At 1 1-2 o'clock A. M. Telegraph Office closed.

NEW JERSEY.

TRENTON, Nov. 7.—Returns come in slow, but it is thought that the Union ticket has carried the State by 4000.

It is said that the influence of the Camden Amboy rail road was given to the Fusion ticket.

OHIO.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7.—Twenty-three Counties gave Lincoln 32,000 majority. The Republican majority in this State will be over 40,000.

MICHIGAN.

DETROIT, 11 P. M.—The republicans claim the State by 25,000 majority. The four republican Congressmen are elected.

DELAWARE.

This State has gone for Breckinridge by 1500 majority.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore complete, Breckinridge 14,850; Bell 12,619; Douglas 1562; Lincoln 1082. Alleghany county gives Bell 800 majority over Breckinridge.

In Baltimore in 1856 Fillmore had 16,000 and Buchanan 9882.

The latest despatches represent considerable gains for Bell and the State is called doubtful.

GEORGIA.

Fifteen counties in Georgia, official, give Bell 6665; Breckinridge 5267; Douglas 4260; The result is uncertain. A despatch says that Georgia goes for Breckinridge.

VIRGINIA.

Returns come in slow. The Bell party claim the State, but the Democrats are confident it has gone for Breckinridge.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Raleigh gives Bell 231 majority. The State has probably gone for Breckinridge.

TENNESSEE.

Scattering returns from this State indicate that Bell has probably carried the State.

KENTUCKY.

Bell's majority in this State is said to be from ten to fifteen thousand.

LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7.—This State has probably gone for Bell.

ARKANSAS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Returns received here from Arkansas show that the State has gone for Breckinridge.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

CHARLESTON, S. C. Nov.. 7.—The legislature, yesterday voted for Breckinridge and Lane.

ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The Reps. claim to have carried the State by 15,000 majority. The Southern part of the State has not been heard from. Four Republican Congressmen are elected from the Northern districts.

WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKIE, Nov 7.—Lincoln's majority in this State will reach 10,000. All the Republican Congressmen are probably elected.

IOWA.

DUBUQUE, Nov. 7.—The returns come in slowly. Douglas's majority in this city is 85—a Republican gain of 400. The Republican ticket is undoubtedly elected.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul and Ramsey counties elect the entire Republican ticket. St. Paul gives Lincoln 186 majority; Minneapolis 278 majority; Brooklyn 113 majority; eight towns in Wabasha county gives 137 majority; Goodhue county gives Lincoln 800 majority; Dacotah county, five towns, 125 majority; Winonah 500 majority.

INDIANA.

The returns show a triumphant vote for Lincoln, fulfilling the promise of the October election. Returns received indicate the election of the Lincoln electors by 25,000 majority.

MISSOURI.

Returns from this State indicate the election of the Douglas ticket, there is some uncertainty about it.

New York.

In addition to the news given in the dispatches published in our extra, we give the following special dispatch published in the Boston Journal Thursday morning:

NEW YORK ELECTION—LINCOLN'S MAJORITY OVER 50,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.

In this State Carter seems to be defeated by Henry Smith. In the 5th and 6th Districts, Wall and Conkling, Reps., are chosen. The 9th District is doubtful. Van Wick is re-elected in the 10th. The Republicans carry all the rest except Corning of Albany.

As near as we can figure, Lincoln's majority exceeds 50,000.

Governor Morgan leads the electoral vote.—The Legislature is Republican.

Members of Congress.—It is impossible to tell precisely how the matter stands about Members of Congress. The Republicans have probably carried 24, and perhaps 2 more—which would leave the Democrats 7, and the delegation will then stand in the new Congress as it now stands.

LATEST FROM PENNSYLVANIA.

PHIL., Nov. 7.—Philadelphia city gives Lincoln 13,000 maj.

Lincoln gains in all the counties heard from over Curtin's majority. In the State Lincoln's majority will not be less than 65,000.

WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKIE, Nov. 7.—Thirteen towns in Walworth county give Lincoln 1490 maj.; Rock county 3300; Waukesha county 438; Lacrosse county 750; Sauk county, 12 towns, 778; Milwaukie city and county, Douglas 1808 majority. The Republicans have gained in all the State, and Lincoln has undoubtedly 10,000 maj. All the Republican Congressmen are elected.

An Unwholesome Organization.

Only a few years ago the "democrats" of the United States Senate refused to place Messrs Chase, Seward, and Wade in the chairmanship of any of the regular committees, because they belonged to "an unwholesome organization." They could not pronounce the shibboleth of slavery, and were, consequently, denied their full rights as representatives of sovereign states. But a change has since come over that squirmish body; Messrs. Chase. Seward and Wade do not any longer stand alone on the floor, and the President's organ, the Constitution, is forced to admit that in the next senate the division of parties will be nearly equal. It publishes the subjoined tables:

"The next senate will be composed thus:

DEMOCRATS AND CONSERVATIVES.

Fifteen South'n States	30	Mr. Latham of Cali.	1
Mr. Bright, of Inda.,	1
Mr. Rice, Minnes.,	1	Total,	35
Mr. Thompson of N. J.	1

OPPOSITION—BLACK REPUBLICANS.

Maine,	2	Wisconsin	2
New Hampshire	2	Iowa	2
Vermont	2	Minnesota	1
Massachusetts	2	Oregon	2
Rhode Island	2	Indiana	1
Connecticut	2	Illinois	1
New York	2	Michigan	2
New Jersey	2
Pennsylvania	2	Total	30
Ohio	2

"Pennsylvania and Indiana will send Black Republicans in the places of Messrs. Bigler and Fitch, and hence we put them down, though their successors have not yet been elected. Mr. Douglas's position is such that he may or may not act with the South and hence we class him with neither. If Dr. Gwin is re-elected, the democrats and conservatives will have thirty-five instead of thirty-four, and if he is defeated, it will stand thus:

Democrats and Conservatives	34
Republicans	31
Mr. Douglas	1

"In all probability Kansas will be admitted during the approaching session of this Congress or the first session of the next, which will make the Senate almost a tie."

The "unwholesome organization" has had a remarkable growth, so that we should not be surprised if, in four years more, the original three will be counted at forty. The little black bottle of smoke which the genii discovered to the adventurers in the Arabian tale expanded in volume until the smoke became a thunder cloud, and the sky enveloped with its folds. Such the history of Republicanism in the Senate must appear to those who lately refused it a local habitation and a name.

☞ It will be seen by a notice in another column, that the Hon. Edward Everett has been secured to deliver his elaborate oration the "Early Days of Franklin," in the new City Hall, two weeks from to-night. As Mr. Everett is the most distinguished orator living, the number who will listen to him will be limited by the capacity of the Hall. We are glad to see that it has been decided to put the tickets at 25 cents each.

Secession movements in South Carolina.

COLUMBUS, S. C., 7.—The Legislature has adopted the joint resolution in favor of a southern convention. To morrow the question will be taken on calling a convention by the people, for the purpose of re-organizing the militis and preparing for the defence of the State.

Mr. Buist in urging the passage of the resolution in the House, said that their action should be prompt, immediate, unqualified and decisive in case of Lincoln's Election.

Congressmen Boyce, last night, in a speech urged secession in case of Lincon's election.

The Charleston Mercury says the news of Lincoln's election is received with cheering for Southern Confederacy.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 7.—The news of Lincoln's election is received with stern indignation. It is reported that different portions of the South heard from, favor the calling of a State Convention to see what course to pursue.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—About ten o'clock last night the mob broke into the Republican Wigwam, and destroyed all the furniture, and also stole the Republican flag and several Wide Awake uniforms. They also broke the windows. Only six perions were in the building at the time. Pistols were fired during the melee. Nine persons have been arrested. There was much disorder in the city during the night.

Theatened Raid on the Capital.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A dispatch to the Commercial says it is rumored at Washibgton, that Gov. Wise will make a raid on that city. Much excitement, with considerable disunion sentiment prevailed there.

NEW CITY HALL.—ODD FELLOWS FESTIVAL.—A large company assembled at the New City Hall on Wednesday eve to witness its dedication and attend the Odd Fellows Levee. The occasion was a most pleasant one, and the general and sole expression with regard to the Hall was that it is an elegant one, and that Biddeford ought to be proud of it.

Biddeford Republicans.

We cannot go to press without speaking a brief word in praise of the Republicans of our city. Steadily they marched forward in the discharge of their duty, polling a vote which under the circumstances is as honorable to their efforts as was the September vote. They made the handsome gain of 137, reckoning on the plurality, and 66 over the conjoined votes of Douglas, Breckenridge and Bell. In energy and devotion to Republicanism, the Republicans of Biddeford, and we say the same of the Republicans of Saco and the county at large, cannot be beat.

KENNEBUNKPORT has redeemed herself. She gives a plurality for Lincoln of 108, and a majority over all of 63. Thanks to the gallant Wide-Awakes of Arundel. Their vote is a fitting reply to the slanders that have been heaped upon them through the colums of the Democrat.

SCARBORO. The Republican gain in Scarboro is over 40. The Wide-Awakes of that town have worked with a will, and the gratifying gain, as it should, gives them great pleasure. Under their influences Scarboro will soon speak for freedom.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.—The York County Temperance Association will hold a Convention at North Berwick on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at 10 o'clock, continuing day and evening. Let there be a grand rally of the friends of Temperance in the county.

Sad Occurence.

On Wednesday, about noon, Mr. GEORGE W. PIERSON, who has been for some time in a frame of mind which has given his friends anxiety, left his home on Hill Street, unbeknown to his family. Not returning to dinner, fears were entertained for his safety, and search was made for him during the afternoon and night. Yesterday morning his body was found under circumstances that makes it certain that his death was caused by taking strychnine. Mr. Pierson was subject to great depression of spirits at times, and of late had given evidences of insanity. He was much respected, and the community generally, as well as a large circle of friends, will regret his untimely death.

ILLEGAL VOTES FOR MR. APPLETON.—The Boston Advertizer says there was a most extraordinary increase in Mr. Appleton's vote in Ward 1, in Boston, so large as to suggest the suspicion of fraud, and we presume the matter will be investigated. It may possibly turn out after all, that Mr. Burlingame is the true choice of the district. For the present, however, we must assume, however reluctantly, that the figures which we have, are correct.

The Atlas and Bee also says there can be no doubt that gross fraud was perpetrated in Ward 1, yesterday. The number of ballots cast exceed the names upon the voting list by two hundred, as we understand. This is the first attempt at ballot stuffing, on an extensive scale, that has ever been attempted in Boston.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31—Later and full returns from Nebraska, elect Daily, Republican, to Congress, by 111 majority.

FINED.—Two rowdies were arrested for molesting a Wide-Awake procession in East Machias.—They were found guilty on Friday, and obliged to pay a fine.

☞ The man who imagined himself wise because he detected some typographical errors in a newspaper, has gone east to get a perpendicular view of the rainbow.—Boston Journal.

ONE HUNDRED GUNS FOR LINCOLN AND HAMLIN.—The Republicans of our city yesterday fired one hundred guns in honor of the election of Lincoln and Hamlin from the Central Wharf.—Portland Adv.

☞ A dreadful accident caused by the careless handling of fire-arms, occurred a short time since at Norfolk, Va. Mr. Jesse T. Newell accidentally killed his little daughter, nine years old, with a pistol which he had just taken from his son. The unhappy father, overcome by terror and remorse, seized a knife, and attempted to commit suicide, but was prevented.

☞ A young lady in St. Paul rose from her bed a few nights since to make an application of camphor to her throbbing temples. By mistake she got hold of a bottle of indelible ink. The error was not discovered in time to prevent a most damaging effect to the fair one's personal appearance.

☞ A large wolf was caught at Molunkus one day last week.

☞ The largest pearls offered for sale at the present moment are four pure and perfect gems now in the hands of Mr. Reed, of Paris, a member of the house of Tiffany and Co. They are valued at 100,000 francs, and are free from flaw or blemish. They came from the Panama fisheries, though at what time they were taken from the shell is unknown; the larger dealers on that coast often keeping fine gems for many years before they offer them for sale, acting possibly on the same principle as the connoisseur in art, who clings to his pictures even though full value be offered.

☞ A man's reputation often depends on the place where he falls asleep. If in a drinking saloon he is thought a drunkard; if in a church, he is regarded as a model of piety.

THE PRINCE IN AMERICA. The New York Times says that a large publishing house in England has requested two New York reporters, who accompanied the Prince of Wales on his tour in America to prepare an account, to be ready before the Christmas holidays.

Man Worship at Trinity.

A letter from New York, in the Chicago Press and Tribune, burlesques the Trinity Church (New York) affair very effectively. "Eu panasia Araminti," a Fifth Avenue belle, is supposed to write it to her "dearest, adorable Sabrina Jane":—

"I am so glad now that pa kept his pew in Trinity. I wish you could have been here last Sunday. I think it was the most delicious day of my life. The Prince attended service at Trinity, and you remember our pew. It was so delightfully near the royal party. It was so much better than meeting him in the ball-room and then there was just as much style you know, and more—and so exclusive, everybody in full dress. I was almost crazy with fear, lest I should get disappointed by the milliner, and Madame Flanche, but everything came home in time; the sweetest bonnet you ever saw, with a Prince's plume; and I enclose you a little piece of the dress, the new Renfrew robe, is'nt it lovely? It made pa frown a little when the bills came home, but ma attended to all that. I had pa get me the finest prayer book he could find; crimson velvet, with a heavy clasp. How lucky that when we girls were at school at Madame Dessaix's Young Ladies Hypophonaphon, we were regularly drilled in our responses in the church service, to give the proper sweet expressiveness to the features. It was so lucky and then too, on Sunday morning, I practised before the glass, saying them and the Lord's prayer aloud, and was getting along well, when that tease, Alfred, who was all the while hid behind the curtains, burst out laughing and said, "Go it, sis, that high pious style of thing will take him.' Just as if there was not a proper propriety even in saying the Lord's prayer. But Alfred is not religious, and does not appreciate these things.

I never saw anything more impressive in my life. He came in with his suite a little late. Everybody rose to receive him. He took his place in the pew assigned him. Our dear rectors had prepared a delightful little surprise in two beautiful prayer books that lay upon the cushion, the most exquisite bindings you ever saw, presents to Albert Edward, one from Trinity Church, and the other from its clergy. That tease, Alfred, says if he had 'known that to be the dodge,' he would have had a box of his favorite El Renfrew cigars put into the pew, presented by the son of one of the wardens in Trinity, as pa is you know. But Alfred should not joke on such sacred things. How sweet and how touching to give a young man away from home a pious gift, like a prayer-book! The choir all came out in their new surplices, twenty-four in all. That tease, Alfred, whispers to me 'Considerable surplus piety in this church.' I was provoked, but I had to laugh. He is such a witch. I wonder the surplices are not everywhere in use, they give such a religious tone. I said so to pa, but he does not like surplices, and said gruffly, 'we should come to candles soon.'

The services were most imposing. They must have reminded the Prince of his home, and the tears came to my eyes as I thought of it. I saw him looking at me just then, and my heart beat. There were a great many clergymen present, and several bishops, and they took turns, and all of them never appeared better. Some of the intoning was lovely, and so full of piety. Ma said religion never seemed so much like religion as on that day, and Alfred, the tease, said it reminded him a little of the Fourth of July, but Alfred isn't pious, you know. Pa says he never was prouder of Trinity, all but the surplices in the choir. But I cannot tell you all the lovely things of that Sunday. The sermon was splendid. My letter is longer than I intended, but the memory of that Sunday is delightful. I wish you could have been here, How fortunate for New York and this country that there is a Trinity where the dear Prince could be reminded of home. I forgot to say that I watched him carefully in all his responses. I am certain he pronounces r like w, as for instance, 'Take not thy Holy spiwit from us,' 'And gwant us Thy salvation.' I wish you could have heard him. It is better than dancing with the Prince to attend church with him.

DEATH OF AN AGED STRANGER.—Friday afternoon a very elderly man, and apparently very feeble, stopped at Mr. Cyrus Cole's, in Cape Elizabeth, and enquired the way to Portland.—He appeared so much exhausted that he was offered refreshments, but he declined them. He then started on the way, as directed, but was soon seen by a woman to go out of his way. As soon as the husband returned he was informed of the fact, and with a lantern made search for the old man. Not finding him the neighbors were alarmed and they all turned out, and about nine o'clock they found him lying in a ditch.—He was taken to Mr. Geo. H. Fickett's house, well cared for, and said he should pass the night comfortably. He however, sunk quietly away and died on Saturday morning about daylight. He gave his name as Barney Haley and said he was 83 years of age. He stated that he was on his way to see the oldest man in Cape Elizabeth, though he could not tell who that man was, and gave information that led to the belief that he has resided with a son-in-law in Biddeford. His funeral will take place this afternoon from the house of Mr. Geo. H. Fickett.—Portland Argus.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.—Mr. Cyrus Greely, of this place, says the Lewiston Journal, informs us that during the thunder storm on Friday of last week, a boy about ten years of age, a son of Mr. G.'s brother, Henry Greely, Jr., of Mount Vernon, was instantly killed by a stroke of lightning. When the shower came up the boy was with his father in the barn threshing. During the progress of the storm, the boy went out of the barn, and had just stepped his foot upon the sill to return, when the lightning struck the barn, and passing down one of the door posts, hit him, instantly killing him, and also killing one of the horses in the threshing machine besides severely shocking both of the men in the barn The horror-stricken father immediately seized his boy, carried him to a pump, and applied cold water. But it was too late,—The stroke had instantly killed him. The boy was an uncommonly promising youth, and his sad and sudden death is a most severe blow to his grief-stricken parents.

ANOTHER HORSE TROT.—"Old Charlie wins," A trot for the purse of $200, came off on the grounds of the Agricultural Society in Saco on Wednesday afternoon, between the "Wait Awhile, (Alfred Horse,) and "Old Charlie" (Ford Horse Biddeford.) The race was won by "Old Charlie" in three straight heats, best time 2:53.

YORK COUNTY.—Every town in Old York has made a Republican gain over the Sept. vote. We point with pride and pleasure to the gratifying Republican vote in Kittery, York, Sanford, and several other places which have been heretofore Democratic.

ARREST OF COUNTERFEITERS.—A gang of counterfeiters have been arrested in New York. In the work shop were found two copperplate presses, several plates for altering bank notes, and other articles appertaining to the counterfeiting business. There was also found, in different stages of manufacture. upward of $4000 in counterfeit $10 bills, mostly on Southern banks. Nearly all these were alterations from broken bank not but cut and ran when Towser came in sight. A nice race they had, and both made time, but Reynard the best. A week ago two grizzly bears and three large wolves hove in sight and played round on the prairie at a safe distance—the same chaps, probably, that made a tender meal from a good-sized calf of ours, that had been running out. The Buffalo have taken our caution, and for two weeks have not troubled us.

☞ Lewis Tappan, of N. Y., who is now 70 years of age, was lately shamefully abused by that celebrated official bully, U. S. Marshal Rynders. The occasion was, that Mr. T. and his grandson, a young man under 20 years old, called on Rynders to make arrangements, if possible, for the removal of three African boys, found on board a deserted slaver, to the Colored Orphan Asylum. Rynders poured a volley of his choice oaths and epithets on Mr. T., shook his official fists in his face, seized the young man by the hair and jerked him about the room, seriously threatening to cut his ears off.

YORK COUNTY, ME. The population of this county, according to the census just taken, is 63,124, against 60,094 in 1850, a gain in ten years of 3030. In 18 towns there is a loss, and in 8 a gain. The largest gain is 3255 in Biddeford, which shows a population of 9350. The gain in Saco is only 432; in Waterborough, 836. The largest loss is 299 in Hollis.

WOMAN'S CHARITY. That was a beautiful idea of the wife of an Irish schoolmaster, who, while poor himself, had given gratuitous instruction to poor scholars, but when increased in worldly goods, began to think that he could not give his services for nothing:—

"Oh! James, don't say the like of that," said the gentle-hearted woman, "don't; a poor scholar never came into the house that I did'nt feel as if he brought fresh air from heaven with him. I never miss the bit I give them; my heart warms to the soft and homely sound of their bare feet on the floor, and the door almost opens of itself to receive them in."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

, For a choice dressing for the hair, nothing equals Mrs. Wilson's Hair Regenerator, it will give the utmost satisfaction. It heals all eruptions of the head and causes the hair to grow luxuriantly. It is invaluable to those who are bald as a re-producer of the hair. It will cure headache as sure as applied.

Mrs. Wilson also compounds from pure Cocoa-nut Oil, a most valuable Hair Dressing, which accompanies the Regenerator. This oil they import from Southern Asia, and there is no offensive odor to it, but it has a perfume which rivals the best of Lubins perfume. See advertisement in another column. 4w45

BLOOD FOOD!
BLOOD FOOD!
BLOOD FOOD!

To all suffering from consumption, incipient or confirmed, or from debility of any kind; or from mental or nervous prostration, brought on by any cause; or from scrofulous complaints; or from diseases of the kidneys or bladder; and to ladies suffering any of the many distressing complaints their sex is liable to, and which engender consumption, the is offered as a certain and reliable remedy. Differing in every particular from the patent medicines of the day, it is a chemical combination of IRON, SULPHUR, AND PHOSPHORUS, of very great worth, and many hundreds bear glad and grateful testimony to the benefits it has conferred on them.

CHURCH & DUPONT, 409, Broadway, New-York, are the sole proprietors of the article, and have in consequence of a fraud attempted upon the public, changed the color of the outside wrapper from red to yellow, and increased the size of the bottle to 8 ounces. Be very cautious in buying to see that the fac simile of their signature is on the wrapper, as all others are counterfeit. 1y42

Bronchitis.—This sure forerunner of consumption can be instantly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. J. R. Stafford's Olive Tar, and Iron and Sulpher Powders. The Olive Tar allays pain, and heals soreness and inflamation, and the Iron and Sulpher Powders convert the waste or worn-out particles of the Blood into gases which are ejected from the body by the pores, instead of being deposited in the Phlegm. The testimonials of many prominent and well-known persons are contained in a pamphlet, which will be sent free by mail to any address. See advertisement in this paper.

NEW CITY HALL.

HON. EDWARD EVERETT,

(Late candidate for Vice President of the United States,) has been engaged to deliver his celebrated oration on

The Early Days of Franklin!!

IN THE NEW

CITY HALL,

BIDDEFORD, ON

FRIDAY EVENING, NOV. 23d!

It is unnecessary to say that Mr. Everett is universally conceded to be the most finished Scholar of the present age, and the

GREATEST OF LIVING ORATORS,

and the lecture chosen for this occasion is said to be his best. As this is his first appearance in this city, the Committee having the matter in charge have decided, in order to afford all an opportunity of hearing him, to make the price of

Tickets 25 Cents,

but as the expenses attending the lecture are necessarily very large, it is desirous that as many as possible may be admitted; therefore it is expected that six persons at least will occupy each seat, that being the number which they are intended to accommodate, and no more tickets will be sold than the seats in the Hall will accommodate. The Hall will be open at 7 o'clock, and the lecture commence at 8 o'clock precisely, and it is very desirable that all should have their seats before the lecture commences. It is also desirable that as many as possible should purchase tickets before the day of the lecture.

Tickets will be for sale until 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the day of the lecture at Boyden's, and Emmons & Piper's, in Biddeford; and at Hobson's Bookstore, Saco.

☞ On the evening of the lecture tickets at the door.—3w46

CONCENTRATED LEAVEN

FOR MAKING

BREAD, TEA CAKES,

All kinds of Pastry, &c., &c.

MANUFACTURED BY

EDWARD CHAMBERLIN AND COMPANY

Proprietors of Shawmut Chemical Works,

No. 33, INDIA STREET, BOSTON.

CONCENTRATED LEAVEN is the result of careful chemical research. All its ingredients are prepared in the highest state of purity, and compounded with a view to produce bread of a far better quality, and in much less time, than by any other process; and the manufacturers submit it with entire confidence to the judgement of discriminating housekeepers, bakers, &c., &c.

Bread of all kinds, made by using CONCENTRATED LEAVEN, is lighter, more digestible and nutritious; has an agreeable natural taste; is less liable to sour; will retain its moisture longer than by any other process, and the whole preparation for the oven need not exceed ten minutes.

It is also valuable because it is not perishable, and may be rendered available in places and at times when yeast is not within reach, as at sea. In all climates, and under all circumstances, it may be adopted, thus obviating all difficulty of procuring yeast or other ferment, which is frequently of an inferior quality, rendering the bread more or less unwholesome.

It is also valuable as regards economy, as it has been ascertained that a saving is effected in the flour of not less than 16 per cent. In the common process, much of the saccharine of the flour is lost by being converted into carbonic acid gas, or spirit, and the waste is incurred solely to generate gas sufficient to raise the dough. By using CONCENTRATED LEAVEN, this waste is avoided, and the gas obtained in a manner equally efficacious. Fermentation as has been stated, destroys a part of the flour or meal, and, in consequence, a barrel of flour weighing 196 lbs., which by the common method ordinarily makes about 250 lbs of bread, gives by this process 290 lbs., thus effecting the very important saving of 16 p. c. in the quantity of flour. By conformity to the directions on each package, any person capable of ordinary attention may conduct the process, and the result will invariably be highly satisfactory.

CERTIFICATE FROM DR. HAYES,

Assayer to the State of Massachusetts.

"I have analyzed the Concentrated Leaven manufactured by Messrs. Edw. Chamberlin & Co., with reference to its purity and efficiency of action in producing the effect of yeast in distending dough and thereby rendering it fit for making bread. This article is skilfully compounded, from perfectly pure materials which leave nothing but a vegetable salt, which is essentially a desirable food in the bread. It raises the dough without consuming the sugar or any other principle in the flour, perfectly; and the same weight of flour will produce more sweet, palatable bread than can be obtained through the aid of yeast; while for cakes and pastry it is invaluable, as it saves all risk, and much time of the pastry cook.

The experiments made by me confirm the statements of the manufacturers, and prove this compound worthy of public approval and extended use.

Respectfully,
A. A. HAYES, M.D., State Assayer.

16, Boylston St., Boston, Sept. 25, 1860.

HOW TO USE IT.

We append a few recipes, but it may be used with great advantage in all other kinds of cakes, also in fruit puddings and other pastry.

BREAKFAST AND TEA ROLLS.—Two or three teaspoonfuls of Leaven (according to the quality of the flour,) to one quart of flour, mix thoroughly by passing two or three times through a sieve; rub in a piece of butter of half the size of an egg, and bake the paste with cold milk or water, (milk is preferable,) barely stiff enough to permit rolling out. Much kneading should be avoided. Cut into desired form, and place immediately in a hot oven and bake quickly.

LOAF BREAD.—The same proportions of Leaven and flour sifted together as above; omit the butter and make the paste stiff enough to knead into a loaf, and bake immediately in a slow oven.

GRAHAM BREAD.—Three teaspoonfuls of Leaven to one quart of wheat meal, sifted together; add one gill of molasses and two eggs; make the paste thin with milk, and bake in a slow oven.

BROWN BREAD.—Three teaspoonfuls of Leaven to one pint of flour, and one pint of corn meal, all well sifted together; add two eggs and about a gill of molasses; make the paste thin with milk, and bake slowly.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES.—Flour and milk sufficient to make one quart of batter; add one egg, then three teaspoonfuls of Leaven; beat to a froth, and cook quick.

DUMPLINGS.—Sift together one quart of flour and two teaspoonfuls of Leaven; rub in a piece of butter half as large as an egg; mix with milk or water, and boil ten minutes.

CHAMPAIGNE CAKE.—Sift together two large cups of flour and two teaspoonfuls of Leaven; put half a cup of butter and a cup and half of sugar into a cup of cold water or milk to a stiff batter, add spice to suit the taste, and bake immediately.

CINCINNATI SPONGE CAKE.—Two cups of white sugar, beaten with the yolks of six eggs—the whites of six eggs beaten to a froth; then beat all together; add three cups of sifted flour, one cup of water, and three teaspoonfuls of Leaven; flavor with two teaspoonfuls of essence of lemon, and bake in a quick oven.

JUMBLES.—Sift together one quart of flour and three teaspoonfuls of Leaven; rub in one teacupful of butter; add a cup and half of white sugar, and spice to suit the taste; mix stiff enough to roll out, and bake quick.

ELECTION CAKE.—One quart of flour and three teaspoonfuls of Leaven sifted together; add a cup of butter, one pound of currants, two cups of white sugar, and one teaspoonful of cinnamon; mix with cold milk to a stiff batter, and bake in a slow oven.

CORN CAKE.—One pint each of flour and Indian meal, and three teaspoonfuls of Leaven, well sifted together; add one gill of molasses and two eggs; mix with milk, and bake in a slow oven.

CUP CAKE.—Five cups of flour and three teaspoonfuls of Leaven, sifted together; add one cup of butter, two of sugar, and two eggs, all well beat together; mix, with milk; then add a cup of currants, and spice to suit the taste. Bake about half an hour.

LADIES' CAKE.—Three quarters of a pound of flour and four teaspoonfuls of Leaven sifted together; one pound of sugar and six ounces of butter beaten to a cream; the whites of eight eggs well beaten and the juice of one lemon; mix with milk.

WEBSTER CAKE.—Five cups of flour, three teaspoonfuls of Leaven, three cups of sugar, one of butter, one of milk, and two eggs; fruit and spice to the taste. Bake about half an hour.

THE

ONLY DISCOVERY

Worthy of any Confidence for

RESTORING

THE BALD AND GREY.

Many, since the great discovery of Prof. Wood have attempted not only to imitate his restorative but profess to have discovered something that would produce results identical; but they have all come and gone, being carried away by the wonderful results of Prof. Wood's preparation, and have been forced to leave the field to its resistless sway. Read the following

Bath, Me., April 18th, 1860.

Prof. O. J. Wood & Co.: Gents:—The letter I wrote you in 1856 concerning your valuable Hair Restorative, and which you have published in this vicinity and elsewhere, has given rise to many enquiries touching the facts in the case. The enquiries are, first, is it a fact of my habitation and name, as stated in the communication; second, is it true of all therein contained; third, does my hair still continue to be in good order and of natural color? To all I can and do answer invariably yes. My hair is even better than in any stage of my life for forty years past, more soft, thrifty, and better colored; the same is true of my whiskers, and the only cause why it is not generally true, is that the substance is washed off by frequent ablution of the face, when if care were used by wiping the face in close connection with the whiskers, the same result will follow as the hair. I have been in the receipt of a great number of letters from all parts of New England, asking if my hair still continues to be good; as there is so much fraud in the manufacture and sale of various compounds as well as this, it has, no doubt, been basely imitated and been used, not only without any good effect, but to absolute injury. I have not used any of your restorative of any account for some months, and yet my hair is as good as ever, and hundreds have examined it with surprise, as I am now 61 years old and not a grey hair on my head or on my face; and to prove this fact, I send you a lock of my hair taken off the past week. I received your favor of two quart bottles last summer, for which I am very grateful; I gave it to my friends and thereby induced them to try it, many were skeptical until after trial, and they purchased and used it with universal success. will ask as a favor, that you send me a test by which I can discover fraud in the restorative, sold by many, I fear, without authority from you. A pure article will insure success, and I believe where good effects do not follow, the failure is caused by the impure article, which curses the inventor of the good. I deem it my duty as heretofore, to keep you apprised of the continued effect on my hair, as I assure all who enquire of me of my unshaken opinion of its valuable results.

I remain, dear sir, yours,
A. C. RAYMOND.

Aaron's Run, Ky., Nov. 30, 1858.

Prof. O. J. Wood: Dear sir:—I would certainly be doing you a great injustice not to make known to the world, the wonderful, as well as the unexpected result I have experienced from using one bottle of your Hair Restorative. After using every kind of resteratives extant, but without success, and finding my head nearly destitute of hair, I was finally induced to try a bottle of your Hair Restorative. Now candor and justice compel me to announce to whoever may read this, that I now possess a new and beautiful growth of hair, which I pronounce richer and handsomer than the original was. I will therefore take occasion to recommend this invaluable remedy to all who may feel the necessity of it. Respectfully, yours,
Rev. S. ALLEN BROCK.

P. S. This testimonial of my approbation for your valuable medicine (as you are aware of) is unsolicited; but if you think it worthy a place among the rest, insert if you wish; if not, destroy and say nothing. Yours, &c., Rev. S. A. B.

The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes viz: large, medium and small; the small holds a pint and retails for one dollar per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retails for $3 a bottle.

The Great Indian Remedy,

FOR FEMALES,

DR. MATTISON'S INDIAN EMENAGOGUE!!

This celebrated Female Medicine, possessing virtues unknown of anything else of the kind, and proving effectual after all others have failed, is prepared from an Indian plant used by the natives for the same purpose from time immemorial, and now for the first time offered to the public. It is designed for both married and single ladies, and is the very best thing known for the purpose, as it will bring on the monthly sickness in cases of obstruction, after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. This may seem incredible, but a cure is guaranteed in all cases, or the price will be refunded. 1000 bottles have been sold in eighteen months without a single failure when taken as directed, and without the least injury to health in any case. ☞ It is put up in bottles of three different strengths, with full directions for using, and sent by express, closely sealed, to all parts of the country. PRICES—Full Strength, $10; Half Strength, $5; Quarter Strength, $3 per bottle. Remember! This medicine is designed expressly for OBSTINATE CASES, in which all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain.

☞ Beware of imitations! None warranted unless purchased directly of Dr. M. or at his office.

Prepared and sold only at Dr. Mattison's Renedial Institute for Special Diseases, No. 28 Union Street, Providence, R. I.

This specialty embraces all diseases of a Private nature, both of MEN and WOMEN. Consultations by letter or otherwise are strictly confidential, and medicines will be sent by Express, secure from observation, to all parts of the country. Also accommodations for patients from abroad, wishing for a secure and quiet Retreat, and good care, until restored to health.

PARTICULAR CAUTION.

In these days of medical imposition, when men assume to be physicians without any knowledge of medicine whatever, persons cannot be too careful to whom they apply, before at least making some inquiry, and especially in relation to those who make the greatest pretensions. Advertising physicians, in nine cases out of ten, are impostors; and as the newspapers are full of their deceptive advertisements, without making inquiry, ten to one you will be imposed upon. Dr M. will send free, by enclosing one stamp as above, a Pamphlet on DISEASES OF WOMEN, and on Private and Chronic Maladies generally; also circulars giving full information, with the most undoubted references and testimonials, without which, no advertising physician, or medicine of this kind is deserving of ANY CONFIDENCE WHATEVER.

Dr. Mattison is the only educated physician in Providence, if not in New England, who advertises, making a specialty of Private Diseases; and he furnishes the very best references and testimonials, both of his honesty and his skill. If there ARE any others, LET THEM DO THE SAME.

Orders by mail promptly attended to. Write your address plainly, and direct to Dr. H. N. MATTISON, as above. 1yr30

FOR SALE.
VALUABLE PROPERTY.
To Farmers, Fishermen, and Hotel Keepers.

The subscriber, in consequence of ill health, will sell, either in parcels or in whole, his valuable estate at the Pool, on Fletcher's Neck, in Biddeford.

This property embraces the large commodious house situated on the Neck, occupied by himself as a Hotel and Summer Resort, with the wharf, storehouse and other conveniences for carrying on business, adjacent thereto. These stores and wharf are convenient for carrying on an extensive fishery business, and being in a safe harbor, accessible in all seasons, is regarded as one of the best places in Maine for the fishing business. The Hotel is large, will accommodate from 75 to 100 boarders, has been fully repaired and furnished, and will be sold either with or without the furniture. This affords a rare opportunity for the purchase of a location at a popular summer resort, to one desiring to carry on the Hotel business.

He will also sell his farming lands, consisting of about 75 acres of excellent land, lying near to his hotel and wharf property, having by its proximity to the sea-coast, never-failing advantages of securing an inexhaustible supply of manure at a trifling expense. This property will be sold at a bargain, on favourable terms. For other particulars and terms, apply to Charles C. Sawyer, Saco; Thomas H. Cole, Biddeford; or the subscriber on the premises.

Female Weaknesses,

Menorragia, Amenorrhœa, Lucorrhœa, Prolapsis, Hysteria, and in fact all irregularities that weak and delicate females are liable to, has extended his reputation as a practitioner far beyond that of any other man now living. On the present occasion he would say to those whose course of nature has ceased to act in harmony with the laws of nature, and has joined the list of foes whose only aim is to crush out, by inches, the health, happiness and life of the young and beautiful whose society was the joy of all who knew her, that his remedies are a sure relief, and will restore the rosy tint to the now blanched cheek, whose marble hue has been brought on by the foul disease she dares not mention.

Any person wishing to consult Dr. Bascom, and who cannot attend in person, will be particular to describe minutely all the symptoms in their letter, and enclose a stamp to pay return postage. Your communications will be strictly confidential, and will receive prompt attention.

American and Foreign Patents.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
LATE AGENT OF U. S. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, (under the Act of 1837.)

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby St., Boston.

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms and with dispatch. Research made into American or foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions,—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting $1,00 Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials given below prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind, are the charges for professional service so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during 20 years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,"
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring Inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Boston, February 8, 1858.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

From September 17th, 1857, to June 17th, 1858, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

Dyspepsia Remedy
DR. DARIUS HAM'S
Aromatic, Invigorating
SPIRIT.

This Medicine has been used by the public for 6 years, with increasing favor. It is recommended to cure Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Heart-Burn, Colic Pains, Wind in the Stomach, or Pains in the Bowels, Headache, Drowsiness, Kidney Complaints, Low Spirits, Delirium Tremens, Intemperance.

It stimulates, exhilarates, invigorates, but will not intoxicate or stupefy.

AS A MEDICINE, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

It will instantly revive the most melancholy and drooping spirits, and restore the weak, nervous and sickly to health, strength and vigor.

Persons who, from the injudicious use of liquors, have become dejected, and their nervous systems shattered, constitutions broken down, and subject to that horrible curse to humanity, the DELIRIUM TREMENS, will, almost immediately, feel the happy and invigorating efficacy of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit.

WHAT IT WILL DO.

DOSE—One wine glass as often as necessary.
One dose will remove all Bad Spirits.
One dose will cure Heart-burn.
Three doses will cure Indigestion.
One dose will give you a Good Appetite.
One dose will stop the distressing pains of Dyspepsia.

One dose will remove the distressing and disagreeable effects of Wind or Flatulence, and as soon as the stomach receives the Invigorating Spirit, the distressing load and all painful feelings will be removed.

One dose will remove the most distressing pains of colic, either in the stomach or bowels.

A few doses will remove all obstructions in the Kidney, Bladder, or Urinary Organs.

Persons who are seriously afflicted with any Kidney complaints, are assured speedy relief by a dose or two, and a radical cure by the use of one or two bottles.

NIGHTLY DISSIPATION.

Persons who, from dissipating too much over night, and feel the evil effects of poisonous liquors, in violent headaches, sickness at stomach, weakness, giddiness, &c., will find one dose will remove all bad feelings.

Ladies of weak and sickly constitutions should take the Invigorating Spirit three times a day; it will make them strong, healthy and happy, remove all obstructions and irregularities from the menstrual organs, and restore the bloom of health and beauty to the care-worn face.

During pregnancy it will be found an invaluable medicine to remove disagreeable sensations at the stomach.

All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this, he has put up the Invigorating Syrup in pint bottles, at 50 cents, quarts $1.

A LECTURE ON THE NATURE, TREATMENT AND RADICAL CURE OF SPERMATORRHŒA, or Seminal weakness, Sexual Debility, Nervousness and Involuntary Emissions, producing Impotency Consumption and Mental and Physical Debility.

By ROB. J. CULVERWELL, M. D.,

The important fact that the awful consequences of self-abuse may be effectually removed without internal Medicines or the dangerous applications of caustics, instruments, medicated bougies, and other empirical devices, is here clearly demonstrated, and the entirely new and highly successful treatment adopted by the celebrated author fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure himself perfectly, and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day. This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

DR. C. H. SHOLES,
ECLECTIC INFIRMARY
127 COURT STREET,
Boston, - - - Mass.

Having given my undivided attention for the last fifteen years, to the treatment of the genito-urinary organs, and having had a large practice in this speciality, I claim the best possible advantages for treatment the world has yet discovered.

I have been advised by our best medical men to advertise my remedies for the people generally, from the fact those who most need my services dare not ask a friend where to direct them.

TO THE IMPOTENT AND DEBILITATED.

Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, I divide into three stages:

1st. NIGHTLY EMISSIONS, which my Eclectic Life Drops will cure in a very short time, without failure.

2d. DAILY DISCHARGES. There are more cases of this than the world is aware of. Some of the symptoms are high-colored and scanty evacuations from the bladder, with a smarting sensation attending it, sometimes with a turbid sediment, and at others a milk-like appearance. I have analyzed many specimens of this nature, and in all cases have found traces of Semen and Albumen, which is as sure to produce death as Consumption, unless it is checked by medical treatment.

LOOK TO YOUR CASE IN TIME.

3d. LOSS OF MUSCULAR POWER. Such cases may be cured by similar means if the patient be in otherwise tolerable health.

Best French Preventatives at low prices.

See my advertisement in the Boston Herald, and you can learn a more full description o such cases.

DR. C. H. SHOLES,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN,

The only Regular Graduate Physician advertising in Boston, gives particular attention to Diseases of Women, especially those suffering from any disarrangement of the MENSTRUAL SYSTEM. Married or single ladies may apply with safety and in confidence, for relief from the many misfortunes peculiar to the sex.

LUNAR MIXTURE.

I have prepared a medicine for the purpose of regulating the Monthly Sickness, which I have used for the last ten years with the most unbounded success. The following recommendation is sufficient:

"Its uniform success, even in extreme cases, is as astonishing as it is satisfactory."—Journal of Am. Med. Science.

I have hundreds of private assurances of the same happy results, but for obvious reasons I cannot place them before the public.

It is the very best thing known for the purpose, and in case of obstruction, after all other means have failed, will produce the desired effect. A cure is guaranteed in all cases, or the price will be refunded. Purely vegetable, and perfectly safe at all times.

CAUTION.—Never purchase any medicine o this nature of any one, if left about the country for sale. Such PILLS and DROPS are deserving of no confidence whatever.

Experienced nurses and pleasant rooms for those who wish to remain under my care.
